

A telephone call from a radio or TV station asking me to watch or listen to a particular station is a solicitation and it is a telemarketing call and should be prohibited just like any other telemarketing call. I can't think of any reason why such calls should be treated any differently than any other calls of a similar nature. The calls are just as intrusive and just as unwanted as any other.

Rob Blau,
Califon NJ